

Interpreting Interim Assessment Results

Interim assessments serve an instructional purpose.

Interim assessments are short and in some cases only have one item on a test aligned to a certain standard. Therefore, each interim assessment does not necessarily fully assess end of year expectations of grade level standards.

Specific to literacy, interim assessments are not designed to measure all facets of a student's ability to read.

They are not accountability assessments and should not be used to evaluate school or teacher performance.

Post-pandemic, we have looked at interim results as one piece of evidence to gauge how students are progressing. This is why they were included in the February 2022 Midyear District Strategy Stepback alongside information about early literacy, SEL, and OTG.

Overall percentage scores can support teachers in making instructional shifts to re-engage students with grade level content.

Although, for school-level data analysis, AR&D recommends school leaders and teachers move past the overall percentage score and student performance bands to analyze student performance on a standard and item level instead.

Teachers use interim assessment data to determine a student's ability to transfer skills from one context to another, gauge a student's mastery of the content taught over a mid-length instruction cycle, and create an instructional action plan for re-teaching and re-engagement.

The 24% of students scoring Meeting or Exceeding in literacy on Interim 1 and the 34% of students scoring Meeting or Exceeding in math on Interim 1 does not represent all district students, nor does it mean that the remaining percentage of students are not going to be performing on grade level by the end of the school year.

Interim assessments are part of Universal Flexibility and not used by all schools in DPS.

For Interim 1, from the 89 schools who opt into using Interims, 54% of students in grades 3-8 participated in ELA and 57% participated in math.

Below the 'met expectations' band is a performance band labeled 'approached.' Students who score in this band have mastered some of the assessed content and standards. These students are not represented in the data above.

Additional Context

Understanding Interim Assessments

District-created interim assessments are available in grades 3-8 for math, literacy, science and social studies.

District-created interim assessments are not designed to measure student growth from one assessment to the next, nor are they designed to be predictive of student performance on CMAS, but rather assess a student's mastery of grade-level content at that point in the school year.

What is Assessed

District-created interim assessments are not cumulative. They are created to measure only standards that would have been taught over a set period of time.

Interim assessments are designed to align to the district-supported Scope and Sequence, but they are not tied to a specific curriculum. They are an important component of a well-rounded learning trajectory.

They are not comprehensive and should be considered a 'dipstick' measurement rather than a full picture of how a student is currently performing on all grade level standards.

Fall 2021 Interim Test #1: By Grade & Ethnicity

District Summary

District Percent of Students who Scored Met or Exceeded Grade Level by Grade & Ethnicity Identity

NOTE: Met or Exceeded is a combined category of students scoring either "Met Benchmark" or "Exceeded Benchmark" on their respective English Language Arts (ELA) and Math Interim #1 tests. Not all schools use the DPS district Interims for instruction, and charters do not use Interims.

Of the 58% of 3rd graders who took Interim #1 in ELA at a district-run school, 12% of those students scored Met or Exceeded.

Network Analysis

Please note that not every school, every grade, and/or every ethnicity identity will have a score for ELA and/or Math. Some populations are small with only 1-2 students taking the assessment, so some percentage differences may appear skewed.

District Percent of Students who Scored Met or Exceeded Benchmarks by Grade & Ethnicity Identity

NOTE: Met or Exceeded is a combined category of students scoring either "Met Benchmark" or above on their respective Evidence-based Reading and Writing test (EBRW) and Math tests. Not all schools administered the Fall 2021 PSAT at DPS, and charters do not administer.

Of the 82% of 9th graders who took the Fall 2021 PSAT at a district-run school, 48% of those students scored Met or Exceeded.
